All day long the telegraph messengers were trotting room with messages in bunche from Atlanta and other places in dear old Georgia reached by The Constitu-tion. Added to them were "wires" from friends all over the map—from Kittery, Maine, to Spokane, Washington state, and from Hollywood and Redondo Beach in southern California back to Florida and the national capital. What a charming and comfort-ing string of messages from kindly hearts they were! Can you wonder a knowledge of two dead and three living languages fails me?

A Landslide of Letters.

Then began an avalanche of letters and birthday cards that is not yet stayed. The telegraph boys and the mail carrier on this route must have concluded that I had been nominated to some big office in which I would have power worth while to my friends and fellow citizens.

Anyhow, I had a birthday to be proud of and those remembrances from more than a hundred affectionate spirits will make an album more precious than if its leaves were of beaten gold!

The Kansas City dailies have voiced editorial comment upon the fact that Hardwick suddenly appeared in these cases. They wondered "how come" that a lawyer of distinction was summoned from so far away as Atlanta to defend these alleged local bandits, and also marvelled that the accused men were flush enough in funds to employ the ex-governor and ex-senator of Georgia, and that so eminent a law yer would take such a case!

These Kansas City journalists do not consider the age-long ethics of the legal profession. a lawyer admitted to the bar agrees to defend an accused person, even when appointed to do so by the court, and where the prisoner may be penni less and even palpably guilty.

The greatest crisis in the career o the United States, was when he de cided to defend Captain Preston and the British soldiers charged with the "Boston massacre." He did defend and acquit them in the face of popular rage and at the risk of his fame and future fortunes. These local papers forget that Senator Reed has gone to Boston to de-fend a criminally-charged state's attorney and that many attorneys, like Clarence Darrow, without impeachment of their honor, have gone afar to defend accused men in unpopular and desperate cases. The established Jury system in these United States no longer serves the purpose for which it was conceived. It does not effect the ends of justice.

Since it no longer works, the sensible thing is to change it. Discover why and in what particular it doesn't work, and then make such changes as may be necessary to correct its deficiencies.

The accused has the right to be tried by a jury of his peers. This does not mean that he shall be tried by men as low as he, but the shall be tried by men as high as he. That is the spirit of the law. If, then, the law is changed, so that none but citizens of the highest ype can qualify for jury service, there is no violation of the spirit or the etter of the constitution. Suppose the change has been made, and none now are eligible for jury service except men and women who have passed a rigid character and intelligence test. What is the result?

People no longer dodge jury service, for it is an honor to serve. It social distinction. Members of a jury will have read all about the case, if it is one of importance, but they will be free of the prejudice peculiar to ignorance and stupidity, and none will have an opinion that evidence cannot change. The shyster lawyer, with his appeal to prejudice and class, may rant in vain. The pathos and hokum and crocodile tears that once insured an acquittal are now without effect.

Why cling to an old way if a new way is better? If intelligence is required in the judge, whose business it is to impose sentence, why not require it in the jury that tries the case? Government is established for protection. Why leave the highest function of government-the decision for life or death-to men you

Will Gunn in Finals at Druid Hills; Equals Record

Plays Black In 36-Hole Final Today

Young Gunn Streaks Over Course at Druid Hills With Score of 66.

BY WHITNER CARY.

Five long years ago Charles Black,
Jr., present city champion, great golfer and, with-all, splendid sportsman, stood on the 18th green of the Macon Country club and extended his hand in congratulation to Watts Gunn, who had just beaten him in the final
of the Georgia state championship.
The late shadows of Friday afternoon at Druid Hills found the same Charlie Black, now a trifle older, now a trifle more experienced and fresh from a 4-2 semi-final victory over Kayton Smith, of Savannah, once more gazing down the trail that leads to the throne room. One lone obstacle loomed through the misty air to bar his passage. Not Watts Gunn, his con-BY WHITNER CARY. through the misty air to bar his passage. Not Watts Gunn, his conqueror five years ago and the undefending champion, but another Gunn, Will by name. A lad, who was 12 years old on that memorable day in Macon when his brother Watts wrote the opening chapter in the brilliant record his clubs have etched in Georgia and the state of the control of the c gia and national golf.

The slender lad, who probably thought far more of marbles than of thought far more of marbles than of a golf ball on that day when his older brother broke into the championship picture, put his 17th milestone into the discard two days ago. Friday he celebrated that event and his presence in the semi-final of a Georgia state championship by disposing of that splendid Cedartown golfer—Charlie Brumby, 6-5, by equalling the course record of 66 while performing this feat and by giving as spectacular an exhibition of blistering golf as a Georgia state tournament has ever witnessed.

Watts is on the side lines, but the Gunn family has sent a worthy un-Gunn family has sent a worthy understudy to carry its colors in the present tournament. An understudy, who, by his work in previous tournaments, has given every indication of following in the pathway of his illustrious brother and who Friday afternoon put the stamp of finality on this subject by uncorking a brand of golf that was of national championship quality.

Brumby will receive an encore Sat-urday in the 36-hole final against Black lies hidden under the sod of the battleground of the Druid Hills course. Whether Charlie Black will course. Whether Charlie Black will crash the gate that has on several previous occasions yawned before his eager gaze also lies beneath the green carpet of those tree-lined fairways. Will history repeat itself? Will that scene in Macon five years ago be resurrected with Will Gunn in the leading role, or will Charlie Black finally get his seat on the throne? Answer those questions and you are entitled to a place among the prophets of ancient times.

But it took no prophet to under-stand the kind of golf that came from the educated clubs of Will Gunn Friday afternoon. It was golf that was as merciless as it was brilliant. Golf that sent Charlie Brumby, who shot an approximate 74, down before it ere the fourteenth tee was reached.

that enabled him to equal the course record set by Bobby Jones several years ago, combined all the brilliance of many of his former achievements with the distance of the course of the of many of his former achievements with a steadiness that was almost machine-like. During the 13 holes of the match he failed to visit a single trap. He absolutely refused to harken to the siren voices of the woodland nympths who on so many other occasions had extended invitations to his tee shots. He refrained from his tee shots. He refrained from sending a single shot to the rough. On the other hand, his driving was near perfect, his iron play was extremely accurate and his putting touch was so keen that he used but 23 putts on the 13 holes. His one miscue, if miscue it might be called, came on the first hole when he took three putts.

His game fairly smoked it was so His game fairly smoked it was so the seventh, eighth and ninth to turn three up.

"How," asks a reader, "can I keep from dipping my right shoulder and digging up the ground back of the ball?"

The best way is to make the hands swing the club head and let the match. It was the last time he was swing the club head and let the seventh, eighth and ninth to turn three up.

These dispatches must vote in favor of the latter selection. Corbett and Fitz must have put on a great show, but Dempsey and Firpo crowded more melodrama into four minutes than most of the others have collected in four hours. Consider that wild scrimmage: A crude challenger hit the champion of the world on the chin with the first punch and almost stops him. The champion gets going and knocks the challenger down six or seven times. The dazed challenger insists on arising and finally drives the champion head first through the ropes. All in the first round. There wasn't enough science to fill a thimble, but there was enough action to keep the pulses of 80,000 spectators quivering for a month. The Crackers had the better pitching and they had the better hitting and that much superiority generally wins on Thursday, Friday-the-thirteenth or any other day. Jim Moore pitched for the Travelers for nine innings, a furious ninth inning rally by the Travelers trying the score. But the Travelers tying the score. Bob Cyllespie batted for Jim in that inning and his single drove in two runs to even the count, but Charlie Eckert, who pitched the tenth, was hit for the runs that won for the Crackers. Then Charlie went back for Crackers. Then Charlie went back for second game and the Crackers tinued to hit him. The ill luck of continued to hit him. The ill luck of the day was pretty generally distrib-uted among the Little Rock players but Eckert really got more than his share for he is charged with both de-feats. It was Billy Rhiel who made most of the trouble for Eckert in the second game, his home run driving over over two runs in the fourth and his single accounting for another in the sixth. Ernie Woolfolk pitched the seventh inning and Nick Cullop socked one over the scoreboard for two more runs. The ball hit a pine tree far back of the fence, which probably was all that kept it from knock-

George Dumont and Jim Moore had a great battle of it for eight innings with the lone run for that far being scored by the Crackers in the third. with the lone run for that har being scored by the Crackers in the third inning. Dumont pitched hard and his support rallied behind him in the pinches to hold that advantage. In fact everything broke in favor of Dumont and against Moore. The Travelors came near scoring several times but each time they threatened some sparkling play stopped them or they slammed the ball straight into some man. After Dumont had struck out Zoeller hit a fly to Elsh in right and Angley scored after the catch.

After holding that one run advantage for eight innings, in the first game, the Crackers took advantage of some poor handling of bunts to score three more runs in the ninth. Rhiel started the inning with a single to left. West bunted to Moore, who threw late to second and both runners were safe. Then Jones bunted and Joe Klinger took the ball and threw to third. Again the throw was too late and the bases were full. Again Tom Angley socked the ball. It was a terriffe drive to center field that drove three runs over the plate. Angley tried for a homer this time and was caught at the plate.

and they tied the score with one of those thundering charges which was supported by a couple of Cracker errors. Elsh started the rally with a double to left. Weis laid down a clever bunt for a base hit, Elsh going to third. Klinger drove a long high fly to deep left and after Max West gotten under it he muffed the ball.
h, who had been waiting to score went to third and Klinger to second.

Then a base on balls to Gooch filled the bases and Blethen was sent to the box. Blair grounded to Jones and the Cracker shortstop was in such a hurry to start a double play that he fumbled the ball. Weis scored and the bases still were full. Blethen then went to work on the batters with a fast breaking curve and struck out Jimmy Cronin and Earl Grace in succession. Bob Gillespie went to bat for Jimmy Moore and lined a hard clean single to center to score Klinger and Gooch and tie the score. The rally closed when Oliver grounded to Jones and Gillespie was forced at second.

Poole greeted Eckert in the tenth with a single to right and Cullop and Jones squeezed Rhiel over for the third run.

LOOKOUTS IMPROVING.

Great Match. Rain or shine, today will be a big day at Druid Hills. Charlie Black and Will Gunn will play for the state title and what a match this battle of East Lake stars promises to be! Will, with his brilliant 66 of Friday afternoon, stands out as a favorite over Charlie Black, who closed out Kayton Smith, of Savannah, by a score of 4-2, but there is a great question regarding Will's ability to hold the pace he set Friday when he beat Charlie Brumby by the one-sided score of 6-5. To be sure, Will does not need to hold that pace to beat Charlie or anybody else because a 66 is just about four or five strokes better than a man needs to shoot to win in this tourney. But Will was so far on top of his game Friday that he may be laboring under a reaction today in the 36 holes of the final battle. He should beat Charlie but he will shoot no such score as he did Friday. There will be no great advantage on either side and Will hasn't got the title in a bag by any manner of means.

Two very different kinds of golf flashed from the clubs of Charlie Black and the younger of the Great Gunns Friday afternoon in the semi-finals. Will was playing almost flawless golf. Down the middle and seldom in trouble while Charlie was playing "three of these and one of those" on too many holes.

Beautiful Shots.

Probably never have two matches in the semi-finals of a state tournament produced two better shots than those executed by Will Gunn and Charlie Black on numbers seven and fourteen, respectively. Will's shot was the most spectacular but not the most difficult to execute.

On number seven Charlie Brumby laid his pitch shot from across the creek within three feet of the pin for an almost certain birdie and the gallery gave him a hand. It was a perfectly executed pitch and should have given him a victory on the hole. But Will had different plans. He waited until the applause died down, then his pitch carried to within 10 feet of the pin, rolled toward the cup and against the flag where it stopped only to drop into the cup when the flag was removed. Charlie Brumby had made a birdie three and lost the hole to an eagle two. Such golf is unbeatable.

Charlei's great shot came on No. 14 after he had sliced his drive to he woods at the right of the fairway and hooked his second to the deep woods 40 yards short and to the left of the green. It took several minutes to find the ball and when it was discovered it lay under a clump of pushes in a ditch. A tree was a few inches behind the ball and a bush stood where Charlie had to put his arms around it to get at the ball. A deep trap lay between him and the green and most of the spectators thought he would just try to get out short of the trap and chip on in four-Smith was safely on in three and Charlie elected to go for it. Just how he made the shot he does not even know himself, but when the ball stopped it was safely on the green and he halved the hole with Smith to be dormie four.

Sportsmanship.

Kayton Smith lost to Charlie Black in the semi-finals Friday, but he lost like a champion. The very fact that Kayton Smith can play as good golf as he does is one of the marvels of the age. His right arm is so crippled that he can't straighten it out at any time and as a result he is forced to play every shot with his body bent far over the ball. But he proves that the game is basically left-handed, but hitting tremendous shots on his full strokes with both wood and iron. And he is a great sportsman.

He proved that on No. 5, when his tee shot went to the woods and the ball could not be found. A ball was found and the caddy said it belonged to Smith, but the Savannah boy went back to the tee and lost the distance because he did not think it was his ball. He lost the hole and knew he would lose it when he went back to play the second ball. He could have played the ball the caddy found, in fact Charlie thought it was his ball and told him to go ahead and play it, but Kayton wasn't sure.

Great Success

Thus far the tournament has enjoyed the biggest success in its history and it is only partly due to the brand of competition which has been remarkably good throughout all flights.

The club officials and members of the tournament committee have been working from early morning until late at night every day to make the tournament just what it has been-a success.

Harry Stevens, professional, is the king pin of the club setup. Harry is efficient and businesslike, but always courteous. He is being continually and incessantly bothered and heckled about details, but his nerves must be of iron for he always has a ready smile and an answer. Accommodations for the press are remarkably good, and above all, the course is in excellent shape. Never at this time of year has Druid Hills been more beautiful or in better golfing condition.

It seems that out in Little Rock the Crackers of Atlanta busied themselves in winning a double-header from Little Rock, at present leading the league in the second half of the Southern association's dizzy split season. Atlanta won a double-header once before this season, but effects weren't as far-reaching as yesterday's happening. For at Memphis the Birmingham

That resulted in the ascendancy of Atlanta to the high position of second place in the standings, one game behind Little Rock—and another crack at the Travelers this afternoon with a chance to beat them and become a chance to beat them and become tied for the league leadership. Lean back in your chair and ruminate over

The question now arises, as propounded by the office cynic, "How ong will this state of affairs continue? How long before the Crackers will slip?" Well, how long? Will they stay where they are or shove off for New Orleans and proceed to drop something like four games as quickly as possible?

as possible?

Pitching.

In view of what has gone before this year concerning the Crackers. this correspondent has firmly resolved a poer the straightful of the content of to never be surprised at anything they do, win, lose or draw.

With fair pitching the team has the ability to win the second half.

Practically everyone agrees on that. Practically everyone agrees on that. But pitching means everything to a team. Did you ever stop to consider what a ballplayer must think about when he takes the field with an ineffective pitcher on the mound, knowing that there'll probably be a bushel of base hits dumped on the field within a short time? It isn't bound to have such a heartening effect.

There's one point in favor of the have such a heartening effect.

When he appeared in camp, drenched to the skin, Heeney took him in charge at once, ordering him to bed while his clothes were dried and otherwise made comfortable. Those are the teams to beat in the second half. So if the Crackers, now on the threshold of going somewhere, are to accomplish much, now's the The record on this road trip stands

Little Rock. Things assumed a grave aspect in the first game of Friday when in the ninth inning Little Rock scored four runs and tied the score. But the Crackers quickly settled things by scoring three in the ninth. So here's the road trip operation. So here's the road trip one-third over and the home side playing win-ning baseball. And thus accomplished by the same pitching available in the by the same pitching available in the first half. One reinforcement has been made in the purchase of Hal Yeargin, coming over from Greenville in the Sally league. He hasn't been tried yet, but any man who can win 19 games and lose seven in any league should be a good pitcher.

Maybe that will put the boys over. And then maybe Atlanta and Little Roll than at any shows recently sign to please and the attendance striving to please and the attendance

Hints of new model radio broadcast receivers are going the rounds of radio trade circles. Prices probably will be lower than ever before for the finest makes of sets on the market. AC receivers are promised which will bring in heretofore unknown tonal qualities for AC sets. Selectivity is assured by the manufacturers. Ease of operation, distance, and nothing to do but snap a switch,

With the advance of television, the experimentation in short wave and the improvement in broadcasting station equipment, radio receiver manufacturers, are not forgetting that the demand for the present is a receiver which will bring in true music when and where it is sought. During the last two or three years receivers have been improved until the older sets are as obsolete as hoop skirts.

The net result of the radio listener can't be anything but better radio reception. The next step probably will come from the big broadcasters. Stations with a power output of 200,000 to 500,000 watts should boom in across continents and oceans. Either that, or in the not so near future a trek to the high frequencies down among the short waves may develop. Ideal radio would be radio which enabled the listener to tune in on Lon-don, Berlin, Paris, Rio or Buenos Aires, and get it clear and strong. Aires, und It's coming, too.

Being optimistic about the electrical age in which we are living is easier than falling off that old log we've heard tell about.

A Boston station has banned Scotch jokes. No more will its listeners hear about Sandy and, mayhap, how he was playing golf with a friend. The friend was the victim while in the course of a paralytic stroke, Sandy made him count it. made him count it.

Marriage To Hindoo Prince

(This is the third of four consecutive articles written following an interview an American newspaperwoman won with the former Maharajah of Indore and his bride, who was Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, Wash. It is the first authentic interview given by the two since their marriage, which aroused the interest of the world.)

BY ZOE BECKLEY.

(Copyright, 1928, by North American News paper Alliance.) Until I had met face to face in their present home near Paris, the former Maharajah of Indore and his American bride, Nancy Ann Miller, of Seattle, Wash., I had tried vainly to explain how this hot-blooded Indian ruler, used to every luxury his enormous wealth could buy, came to be attracted by an undistinguished American girl without showy beauty or dash, who smokes not, and wears plain clothes.

And of her ardor for him-a man of another world, another race and color, worshiping strange deities and Broadcasting ly expensive—

Leaders say no decisions have yet been reached as to the various nominations but stated that every effort would be made to obtain the best candidates possible for the various posts.

A vigorous campaign to make all nominations of fact, our marriage seems perfectly natural to me, not at all a step from a familiar world to a totally different one. All my life I have loved the literature of the East, and studied it. Even as a child I got hold of every Oriental tale I could. I sometimes think I remember happenings of a former life—as though I might have belonged age ago to that Eastern life—"

She broke off, searched my face for signs of scoffing, and finding none, continued:

Our love and marriage seemed as nat-ural as though he had always been my neighbor.

Not Frightened. "Perhaps this is partly why I was not 'frightened' at the ceremonies at Gangapur and Barwaha. It seemed almost as if the people sensed it.

They were so sweet to me, yet I couldn't even say a word to them. All I could do was smile.

I remarked on the youthful appearance of the Maharajah, how I had supposed him middle-aged, portly, and with a compromised waistline.

"Fat and ser sual-looking," he added, with almost a schoolboy grin. "Well, my son is twenty, so I can't claim to be a youth, exactly,"

"Nevertheless," cut in her highness, "he is a boy in everything but years, with all a boy's enthusiasms and ideals—I assure you!"

The equipment used for taking the picture looked like the regular camera setup. At twelve Elizabeth runs away again, this time from school and to the home of her Auth Dolly in London. Dolly, who is almost as flighty as the young Elizabeth, sympathizes with her niece, much to the irritation of her stepson, Stephen Whithy.

After the death of her parents, Elizabeth goes to live with her aunt. During the war they keep themselves busy and also amused by performing in anhateur theatricals for the benefit of wounded soldiers. "I used to be frightfully in love with him when I was at school," confided Elizabeth. "Young girls are so silly and sentimental," she laughed condescendingly. "I slept with his photograph under my pillow; lots of us did. How they would envy me if they knew. Is he married?"

"Not for the moment, I believe. I say, Elizabeth, you don't expect people to look quite the same off the stage do you?"

"Of course not," said Elizabeth; "they would be even more interesting."

"Iully.

"But he has worries of his own, it seems. O, dear, why do these blows fall all on the best and leave the others alone?"

"Fate. Life. What you will."

Mark shrugged his shoulders. "One alone?"

"Well, I thought I'd better give you a hint... it's the other side of the shield. Stephen seems to think you're not prepared ..."

Elizabeth's eyes began to flash at the very sound of her guardian's name. "O, Stephen always crabs me. The sarcastic beast! I wish something really nasty would happen to him. It might do him good!"

"Something has happened," said Mark gravely. "He has called his creditors together and offered to go bankrupt."

"It means that he will have none when matters are settled. He is going to dispose of the business and pay his creditors 20 shillings in the pound. Unfortunately Stephen is lacking in the larger generosity; he will share good fortune with his friends, the bad he keeps to himself. I have only just discovered how matters stand. However, he won't have to go bankrupt and that is always something, but he will have to start again, at 30, at the bottom of the ladder."

NEW YORK SUN. to 6 per cent. The foreign exchange market experienced the worst slump of the year.

The rally in the stock market in the face of the higher New York and Richmond hank rates was not due entirely to the plenitude of call money, although this undoubtedly had not a little influence. It was due also to the technical position of the market, which had been oversoid in the last two days, to the decrease of $84,000,000 in the latter federal reserve figures on brokerage loans and to the fact that the bank rate increases had been pretty well expected and discounted. The only surprise lay in the unusual promptness with which New York followed Chicago.

The feature of the stock market was the apparent lack of real liquidation. The recessions of some of the speculative favorites during the first hour seemed to be the result of bearish raids. Trading was never particularly active and the turnover for the day totaled well below 2,000,000 shares.

New York, July 13.—(Special.)—Liquidation which began in yesterday's cotton market continued today on reports or favorable crop progress in Texas and that recent hot wenther there had acted to check weevil activity. The same statement also is to the effect that with further rain weevil will become active.

Rad weather has been noted in central belt and Atlantic states and tomorrow's forecast is for the same character of weather. There is no doubt about this persistent cloudy, showery condition being seriously adverse to the crop and it would seem already that a short crop for the eastern belt is practically assured even with the situation would naturally look even worse.

Air pressure originating in the Pacific normally sweeps across to the Atlantic and there is a low harometer over the entire western section of the country. This appears destined to bring more very unfavorable weather entirely across the cotton belt towards the first or middle of next week.

We look upon the reaction as a natural one and feel more strongly favorable to buying cotton now despite the possibility of low consumption figures expected Saturday.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

New Orleans, July 13.—The market today has continued its reactionary trend on liquidation and further professional selling induced by the easy cables and private reports of rains in west Texas. The failure of the unfayorable features in the weather and private crop advices to stimulate a broader demand appears to have discouraged recent buyers of contracts and contributed to the liquidating movement of the past two days. This liquidation, however, makes the market all the healthler and we do not believe it would take much new buying to turn the tide forward. A disposition to even up long accounts fearing a bearish consumption report tomorow has no doubt been a factor in the decline. The rains in west Texas did not Orleans, July 13 .- The market to

New York, July 13.—Liverpool was worse than expected this morning with the Alexandria market sharply lower, this brought heavy liquidation during the first hour which was well taken. The market gradually recovering on the publication of weather map showing very heavy rains throughout the Alantic states, where clear, dry weather is urgently needed particularly in Alabama.

The advance falled to hold, however, as liquidation made its appearnce in the late afternoon from those who had bought following the acreage report and who felt that the market had made a very poor showing in face of the continued showery weather in the east. On this break the trade was a fair buyer.

New. York, July 13 .- (A)-Renewal of realizing in the cotton market today caused a further decline in prices of nearly $1.50 a bale which carried the market below the low points touched after the government acreage report last Monday. October contracts sold off to 21.52, a net decline of 39 points and a break of 135 points from the high level touched toward the end of last month, and closed at 21.65. The general market closed barely steady, at net declines of 24 to 28 points.

The opening was casy at a decline of 13 to 19 points in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables, with some selling, apparently on private reports of rains in west Texas. Offerings Absorbed Offerings Absorbed.

Early offerings were absorbed by covering and trade buying said to be partly for Liverpool and continental account, but demand was supplied on very moderate bulges, and prices worked off to net losses of 20 to 25 points during the forenoon.

Pressure subsided somewhat around the 21 1-2 cent level for December, and the mid-day market steadied up on covering, combined with trade or commission house buying on prospects for further showers in the eastern belt, and the official detailed weather reports which did not show as much rain in the west as some early sellers had anticipated.

July advanced from 21.45 to 21.58 or within 10 points of yesterday's closing quotation, while December sold up from 21.50 to 21.70 or within 3 points of Thursday's close.

Business Tapers Off.

Business, however, tapered off on this advance, and the failure of bullish features to have a more stimulating efect on demand appeared to disappoint olders of contracts. holders of contracts. At any rate, there was a renewal of liquidation by recent buyers and some stop orders were uncovered as prices worked under the low levels touched at the beginning of the week. Their execution sent the prices of December off to 21.33, while July sold down to 21.30, net declines of about 34 to 40 points on the general list 17 Berlin City 6s '58 .... 92} 91} 92}

BUSINESS LIGHT

AT NEW ORLEANS. New Orleans, July 13 .- (P)-Business was light in the cotton market today and although the official fore-cast promised rain the eastern por-tion of the belt where moisture is considered detrimental to the crop, the general trend of prices was down-ward. The lows of the session were reached in the final trading when active liquidation by recent buyers forced October contracts down to 20.96, compared with 21.33, the day's high, and 21.36 at yesterday's close. The option closed at 21.06 with the general market steady, 30 to 38 points net lower.

The opening was easy in sympathy with lower Liverpool cables, first trades showing losses of 11 points.

The market continued to ease off after the start, the decline being aided by private reports of rain in the by private reports of rain in the western drought section and bearish British board of trade returns. Oc-tober traded off to 21.13 and December 21.14, or 22 to 23 points under the previous close.

When the weather map failed to confirm the early rain reports the demand increased and was further stim-ulated by the official forecast for rain in the eastern portion of the belt where it is not needed. Before the buying had subsided October had re-covered to 21.33 and December 21.29, or 19 to 20 points up from the lows.

After mid-session the market weakened again under a renewal of liquidation by recent buyers, based on the more favorable character of crop reports from the interior.

Reports of rains in the western drought section helped the easiness. Before the offerings were absorbed all months had shumed to new lows for months had slumped to new lows for the day with October at 20.96 and December 20.91, or 40 to 41 points net down. The market closed a few
